Createspace. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 342 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.8in. An excerpt from the beginning of the PREFACE: THE words and phrases cited in this work are either peculiar to the third Gospel and the Acts of the Apostles, or else, though not peculiar to them, are for the most part more frequently employed in these writings than in those of the other N. T. authors. The extant Greek medical writers from whom the examples of the medical use of such words are taken are Hippocrates, B. C. 460-357; Aretaeus, who lived in the first century after Christ, probably in the reign of Nero or Vespasian; Galen, A. D. 130-200; and Dioscorides, who lived in the first or second century of the Christian era. The edition of these writers quoted is that of Khn (Leipsic 182130). Hippocrates is quoted by the Sections of Fosius; Aretaeus, by those of the Ed. Oxon. , both of which are given in Khn; Dioscorides, by the usual division of chapters. Galens works are so extensive, occupying twenty-one volumes in Khns edition, that they have been quoted by the volume and page (appended in brackets), as well as by the titles and sections of the several treatises. In order to bring the work within reasonable bounds, it was found necessary that the number of examples of the medical use of a word should not, in any case, exceed ten; in many instances they could be cited indefinitely. The few cases in which they are not of very frequent use in the medical authors have been noticed under the words, and the examples have, generally speaking, been taken, as far as possible, from all the medical authors, to show the continuous and varied use of the words...
